Open Letter: European Commission Work Programme 2018 –
Revision of the EU 2010 Tourism Strategy

Dear President,

Dear First Vice-President,

Firstly, let us congratulate you on the recent success regarding roaming charges. This is a real and tangible benefit for citizens travelling across the EU on business and pleasure. Let us clearly say that Europe needs more initiatives like this! If we want to win back the trust of citizens we have to truly raise awareness of the benefits Europe brings to their everyday lives.

In this regard, tourism is one of the policy areas where the EU can make a real difference and showcase many of the benefits and rights it has created for its citizens! Passenger-rights, cross-border consumer rights, the European healthcare regime, the end of roaming charges, the lowering of travel costs and customs free shopping with a single currency in the Eurozone are just some of our great achievements.

As you are aware, the economic and social importance of the tourism sector to the EU cannot be overstated. The sector not only generates 10% of the EU's GDP and provides employment for up to 15% of the population (including a large proportion of young people and women); it also helps integrate low-skilled Europeans and migrants to the labour market.

Moreover, tourism often regenerates dilapidated areas and less developed regions, particularly rural ones. Last but not least, tourism contributes positively to creating a sense of pride in European identity and citizenship and promotes mutual understanding within the EU. This is particularly important today in view of fighting the rise of Euroscepticism and the populist anti-European movements across the EU.

Furthermore, in order to secure Europe's position as the world's leading tourist destination and to continue creating jobs and sustainable growth in the EU in line with the EC priorities for 2015-2019 and beyond, we need to considerably strengthen the millions of SMEs in the tourism sector. This means providing them with less burdensome regulatory investment prospects (cutting red tape), sufficient funding opportunities, developing further the digital single market and improving sustainability and security in the tourism sector, to mention but a few.

With Commissioner Elżbieta Bieńkowska we have had excellent cooperation when it comes to initiatives for SMEs and tourism and we are very grateful for the good collaboration over the last number of years and would like to further support her wherever possible.

In view of the above, we therefore kindly ask you to include a European Strategy for Tourism in the European Commission Work Programme for 2018 updating the last communication issued in 2010.

This would allow the Commission to address tourism-related challenges across all relevant EU policies and present a multi-annual work programme with clear goals, indicators and measures for tourism. The strategy would provide guidelines for Member States, regions, local authorities and the private sector in developing their tourism strategies.

Also, in view of the European elections in 2019, it is important to raise awareness of the benefits the EU has created, especially as regards the citizens' rights and travel.

To this end, we are ready to contribute to this process involving political leaders of all levels, business communities, citizen groups, academics and research centres.

We are convinced that with a clear vision, adequate funds and working together in close partnership, we can remove not only roaming charges but also other obstacles hindering SMEs and tourists per se in Europe's tourism industry.

We must support the tourism sector which is hugely contributing to economic prosperity and the social inclusion of millions of European citizens and as we have said we can better use tourism when it comes to raising awareness of a common European identity and European citizenship.

We are looking forward to your positive reply and remain at your disposal.

Yours sincerely,
