Luc Van den Brande,
President of the Committee of the Regions

Pavel Bém,
Mayor of Prague

José Manuel Barroso
President of the European Commission

"Cities and regions are the first to be able to boost the economy and businesses, and are best placed to guarantee social cohesion and bring citizens on board the European political project. This means that Europe cannot impose itself on its citizens but should build itself through them and in the areas where they live and work."

"The central theme of the Summit will be cohesion policy in Europe today and, above all, the future of the European Union. At this summit, we shall try to identify together the direction in which we want to move forward with this common European policy, whose primary aim is to bolster the least developed areas of Europe. The purpose of the summit is to provide a forum for all those of you who want and have something to say about the cohesion policy of the future, and I am greatly looking forward to the findings and initiatives that will come out of this meeting."

"Europe is not some abstract idea, it begins with our regions and cities. So this Summit will play an important role in building a strong Europe, a diverse Europe, a Europe of citizens."

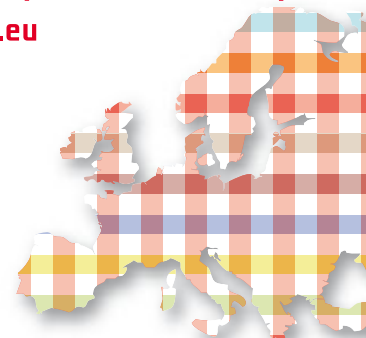

GET A TASTE OF EUROPE

FESTIVAL OF EUROPEAN REGIONS IN PRAGUE

5-7 March 2009, 10 a.m.-10 p.m.
Wenceslas Square, Old Town Square
www.praha.eu

Involve all your senses and relish a unique mix of culture, specialities and presentations from all corners of our continent. Get to know the regions and you will have a full view of all Europe.

To mark the occasion of the European Summit of Regions and Cities in Prague, the "Taste Europe" festival will take place on the Old Town Square and Wenceslas Square from 5-7 March 2009.

Visitors of the festival will have the unique opportunity to get to know the traditions and cultures of various European regions through products typical for the given territory. Right in the heart of Prague they will be able to sample specialties from Bohemia, Moravia, and more than twenty other European regions. Presentations will take place at dozens of booths located on the Wenceslas and Old Town Squares.

The three-day happening will be accompanied by a diverse cultural programme. The organisers have prepared a taste of the most original music, customs, and culture from the participating regions. While the top Czech and European pop-rock stars trade off on the main stage, the second stage will acquaint visitors with works of traditional and folk culture, including dance troupes and bands from practically all of Europe.

The Old Town Square will offer an accompanying programme, focused primarily on Bohemian and Moravian traditions. The festive atmosphere will be rounded out with tastings of typical Czech dishes, which without question include fresh pork delicacies. Visitors can find out about the details of the activities of EU regions and cities at the individual stands.

The European Union is made up of diverse regions and cities with unmistakable histories and local colour – something that all visitors to the festival will discover for themselves!
